

TEXAS TECH UNIVERSITY

Office of the President

October 22, 2018

Dear Texas Tech family,

It is with heavy hearts and deep sadness we inform you that Scott Ridley, dean of the College of Education, passed away this afternoon, after a long and courageous battle with cancer. Scott's illness did not deter from his commitment to his students, faculty and staff, and he continued to lead to the very end. We will forever be grateful for his leadership, innovation and spirit that elevated the stature of the college and its programs and benefited the lives of so many future educators.

Please join us in offering our condolences to the family and friends of Scott and to the College of Education. He will be missed.

Service arrangements are pending, and we will provide more details as they become known.

Sincerely,

Lawrence Schovanec, President
Michael Galyean, Provost
Robin Lock, College of Education Vice Dean
