

TEXAS TECH™

Dear Red Raider Family,

I want to personally thank each of you for your patience, understanding and support during the campus closure this week. I deeply appreciate everyone's cooperation and understanding in dealing with this challenging experience, and I'm grateful for the dedication and hard work that has been invested by so many of our staff and off-campus partners to help restore services and get our campus back to normal.

While the campus will remain closed this week, we will reopen on Monday, March 24, and courses will be delivered as planned. Crews are continuing their efforts to restore power and essential services, and we expect all systems will be fully operational by that time.

I am proud of the resilience and commitment of the Red Raider family as we navigated this situation. You have my deepest admiration and appreciation.

We look forward to welcoming you back to campus on Monday.

Sincerely,

Lawrence Schovanec
President, Texas Tech University
