

Dear Red Raiders,

Texas Tech's plans to return to campus for face-to-face instruction has been the subject of many questions that we have received from students and parents. With your health and safety in mind, we have been working diligently over the last several weeks to provide modes of instruction that will fit your needs.

Our course modalities for the fall will remain flexible with more than two-thirds of our courses being taught using some degree of face-to-face instruction. For first-year students, 80 percent of our 1000 level courses will be offered using a mixture of face-to-face and hybrid instruction. In accordance with state and federal guidance, we will limit classroom capacity and face coverings will be required in all campus buildings, including classrooms.

If you have any questions or concerns about your schedule, please contact your academic advisor and they will be happy to assist you.

There is simply no substitute for the on-campus experience, especially like the one that we provide here at Texas Tech. We can't wait to see you in the fall.
